Millwork Expertise Extends Far Beyond Cabinetry

ISI's field staff is widely thought to be in a class of their own when it comes to installing panel systems, wood furniture lines, architectural wall systems, and window shades. Given the nature of the materials involved, projects performed by our Millwork Division often do a particularly good job of showcasing ISI workmanship. Consistent demonstration of millwork expertise has led to more complex installations as well as substantial growth in this area of the business.

In a healthcare corporation headquarters, for example, an ISI millwork team installed a corporate logo wall that was approximately nine feet wide and more than two stories tall. The wall was composed of raised painted wood blocks that came in sections varying in size up to 4 feet by 8 feet. Setting these sections into the opening created by the removal of existing wood panels was a lengthy process and required the use of scaffolding and lifts. The install became more challenging as the team worked to level and secure the sections at the higher elevations. As part of the same project, the ISI team installed wood slats designed to go over some new product display walls, adhering to precise layout specifications required for image and lighting alignments.

Another ISI millwork team installed a high-end reception/security station at a private university. The station was delivered to site in about 40 pieces, including the curved crown molding, trim and column wraps. Our team installed all elements of the station except for the tile fascia below the transaction counter. "We were very impressed with how meticulous they were with every detail," the Security Manager said.

Sometimes how the job gets done is as distinctive as the trade craft that goes into it. One project called for making approximately 100 custom cuts for power drops in table tops at a site where construction was in full swing. Our foreman turned an ISI trailer into a shop where the cuts could be accomplished, thereby minimizing the client's product handling costs.

2016 in Review

Following are some highlights of ISI Insider stories published in 2016.

January – ISI once again proves its versatility when a specialty team is requested to install steel-framed fabric domes to protect recycled scrap materials from the elements.

February – The ISI Family pays respects to ISI founder Bud Sprengel. The first Foreman Meeting of 2016 draws more than 60 installers.

March – ISI foremen meet with our industrial health and safety consultants, gaining knowledge for maintaining safe job sites and managing accident and injury situations. Our apprentice mentoring program gets underway.

ISI provides logistical support for the Chicago area's 2016 Save A Sample! program. Teknion holds a week of systems installation training in our multipurpose room.

April – More than 150 staff members attend the first companywide meeting of 2016. ISI attends the Spring meeting of FSN, our best-practice peer group.

May – ISI participates in the 2016 Chicago-area Safety Stand Down. We hold our first on-site CPR/AED training course. Eric Sprenzel joins the ISI Sales team as a project manager.

June – 107 members of our field team complete the OSHA 30 Construction Safety Course, collectively recording more than 3,200 hours of study and test time. The summer golf and networking season gets underway.

July – Our sales, project coordination, warehouse and field teams pull off an amazing feat with the installation of 5,000 new passenger seats in a commercial airline terminal at O'Hare International.

August – ISI field teams continue to demonstrate their problem-solving abilities. Teknion holds training for several Midwest installation teams.

September – A big milestone in ISI history is reached when 100 jobs are scheduled for a single day! 12 members of our warehouse and asset management teams become certified forklift operators.

October – ISI attends FSN's Fall 2017 meeting and introduces industry-specific safety training forms to be delivered weekly to our foremen via the ISI-developed iPhone app.

November – The Chicago Cubs win their first World Series title since 1908! Thanksgiving celebrations seem cheerier than ever.

December – The ISI Employee Holiday Party is a delightful event for the fourth year running. ISI sends 26 volunteers, including several from client dealer Office Revolution, to work at the Holiday for Hope 2016 event. ISI corporate giving actions are announced.

"Thank you for handling this promptly, Michelle. I should also tell you that your installers did a fine job at the site on Monday. In particular, they went beyond the call in dealing with some confusion regarding placement of the ergonomic accessories. No one should have to move a keyboard tray three times but they did without complaint. While all of the installers were exceptionally good, the installation foreman in particular deserves credit for extremely responsive customer service. Thanks for assisting on our project."

Chicago's Biggest Hotel Project Since 1992 Makes Good Use of ISI Expertise

ISI has had furniture and millwork installers on site since February in the Marriott Marquis Chicago project. Opening August 2017, the 40-story steel and concrete skyscraper is the newest addition to the burgeoning McCormick Square entertainment and hospitality district flanking the McCormick Place convention center.

Given the diversity of products involved in furnishing the hotel's 1,205 guest rooms, ISI's scope of work offers an excellent demonstration of both installation and finish carpentry skills. A 10-man ISI team led by senior foreman Ted Vandersnick concentrates on a group of floors at a time, moving between them to install millwork, freestanding furniture, artwork, and ancillary product. Millwork specialist Dave Gonzalez is doing a masterful job overseeing the millwork details.

Close communication with the general contractor's team and other trades is crucial to keeping the project on schedule.

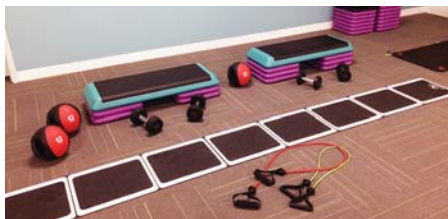

Boasting 93,000 square feet of event space including two 25,000 square-foot ballrooms, a skybridge connection to McCormick Place, views of Lake Michigan, and 1,205 guest rooms, the Marriott Marquis Chicago is the biggest new Chicago hotel to be built since 1992.

ISI's Versatile Multipurpose Room!

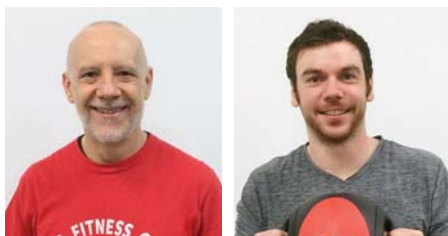

ISI Insider readers are surely aware of our easily reconfigurable room that is available free of charge for industry events. Lately, the room has started serving as the ISI fitness center.

Hearing of interest in some kind of organized exercise for the office staff, Rich Moore and Matt Sprenzel—both very health-conscious guys—suggested a fitness class twice a week.

Our staff is taking full advantage of the after-hours workouts. Two gentlemen from the Itasca Park District—Eric, a fitness instructor, and Brian, a fitness coach—lead the group in routines designed to stretch and strengthen the bodies and de-stress the minds of our hard-working office folk.

The 30-minute sessions have been extremely motivating, even leading some staff members to make more time for workouts at home!

With a product list that runs into the thousands, tight coordination within the ISI Team is also vital. The artwork inventory alone numbers close to 2,500 items.

New Inventory Monitoring Program

We would like all client dealers to be aware that we have further enhanced ISI's receiving process to enable (1) immediate tracking of product received against dealer purchase orders, and (2) automated email notification to the client when the product has arrived in our warehouse.

The notifications will include a request that delivery to the job site be scheduled within a given time frame. Storage charges will be assessed and invoiced for product that remains in ISI's warehouse after a designated time.

Remembering Jordan Stein

The ISI family lost a dear friend of many years with the passing of Jordan Stein, the former owner of S. Stein & Company. Succeeding his father, Jordan built S. Stein into a thriving dealer of new and used furniture in the Chicago area. S. Stein was a long-time ISI customer.

Matt Sprenzel and Cathy Senchuk and many others from the contract furniture industry attended the funeral for Jordan in late April.

We extend our condolences to Jordan's family and friends, and especially to his wife, Beverly, and their children, Renee (Sam) Lallas, Brenda (Jeff) Sernick, and Sidney Stein.

HOLIDAY CLOSING NOTICE

ISI will be closed Monday, May 29, in observance of Memorial Day. We remember all men and women of the US military who have died in service to the country.

What famous architect designed this signature Illinois residence?

January Stumper: Joe Lim from Henricksen.
Answer: The Chicago Lincoln statue was originally placed in a traffic island at the intersection of Lincoln, Lawrence and Western Avenues. The site was later deemed to be one of the city's three most dangerous intersections, so the statue was moved about 50 feet east to its present location.

Norm Stuba Retires

It was 1980. Norm Stuba was a second-year apprentice carpenter working in single-family housing—an industry heading for a downturn. A buddy at the union hall suggested to Norm that he call Bud Sprenzel and inquire about work at Installation Specialists.

Norm Stuba

Norm made the call and got an offer. “I can’t promise anything beyond two or three weeks of work,” Bud said, “but if you’d like to take it and see where it goes, we’ll talk.”

“It’s been a very long two weeks,” as Norm likes to tell it. Indeed it has. Norm’s two weeks of trial employment turned into a 37-year career as an ISI installer and foreman. There have been plenty of individual and team accomplishments along the way, and successful projects too numerous to mention.

Reflecting on Norm’s career with ISI, Matt Sprenzel said, “We’ve jokingly called him Stormin’ Norman, but the reality is that Norm Stuba has always been an extremely calm, patient individual. Those qualities made him a strong leader. He’s also been very good at training people and getting them to exemplify the dedication to thoroughness and quality workmanship that sets ISI apart. The ISI Team is going to miss Norm greatly.”

Showing himself again to be a builder through and through, Norm plans to kick off his retirement from ISI with a kitchen remodeling project. Beyond that, he and his wife, Carolynn, look forward to spending more time at their home in Wisconsin. Carolynn hopes to retire in the near future as well.

We wish Norm and Carolynn all the best!

Companywide Meeting in September

Our latest companywide meeting provided some important looks back for ISI and even more of a look ahead.

Matt Sprenzel’s review of the business from late 2016 to the present and a little beyond helped to put the challenges and achievements of 2017 into perspective for everyone.

Newer ISI teammates received something of a history lesson as Matt remarked on the retirements of Norm Stuba and, earlier this year, Don Palka, each a long-serving member of the ISI field team. Rich Moore further heightened the sense of ISI’s history as a service provider and employer by spotlighting Tom Antonik (35 years), Ed Pulido (25 years), and the installers shown in boldface type in Career Milestones.

29th Annual Holiday for Hope

For the third consecutive year, ISI will be a corporate sponsor of Holiday for Hope, an annual daylong event featuring children’s activities, lunch, and a visit from Santa bearing gifts for the children.

The hundreds of children who participate are primarily homeless or from area shelters who might not otherwise have the opportunity to enjoy a traditional Christmas holiday.

Holiday for Hope, now in its 29th year, will be held Saturday, December 16, at Broadway Armory from 9:00 to 3:00.

In addition to providing financial support and in-kind gifts, ISI organizes volunteers to assist with the day’s activities. Last year, several dealer staff members also participated on the ISI volunteer team. All of our volunteers have commented on how much they enjoyed interacting with the children.

Consider participation in Holiday for Hope as a part of your holiday giving. It is a great way to give back to the community, and we can assure you it will be a rewarding and unforgettable experience. Activities range from assisting with arts and crafts projects and monitoring sports events to helping serve food.

► We invite ISI staff members, dealers and clients to join the ISI volunteer team. To volunteer, contact Kelli Conway (kconway@isi-install.com). Contact Rich Moore (rmoore@isi-install.com) for event details.

HOLIDAY SCHEDULE THRU YEAR END

ISI will be closed for holiday observance on the following days.

Thanksgiving..... Thursday, November 23
 Christmas..... Monday, December 25
 New Year’s Day..... Monday, January 1

Save the Date!

The ISI Employee Holiday Party is scheduled for Friday, December 22. We hope to see everyone take part in the festivities.

Industry Events

ISI thanks the many industry groups that have organized networking events in recent months. The events are great opportunities to experience the warmth and professionalism that characterize the commercial interiors field. ISI representatives enjoyed participating in the John Buck Spring Fling, the Advocate Children’s Hospital Golf Classic, the CBRE Charity Bash at Wrigley, the CREW Golf Outing, the CoreNet Golf Classic, and the FSN Fall Meeting in NYC.
